

Grand Staff Guide

Treble Staff
usually played by right hand

Bass Staff
usually played by left hand

G line

F line

Same note

Bass F

Middle C

Treble G

The diagram illustrates the Grand Staff, which consists of two staves: the Treble Staff (top) and the Bass Staff (bottom). The Treble Staff is usually played by the right hand, and the Bass Staff is usually played by the left hand. The notes A, B, C, D, E, F, and G are shown on both staves, with the Treble Staff notes starting from the G line and the Bass Staff notes starting from the F line. The notes are color-coded: A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink). The diagram also shows the piano keyboard with the corresponding keys labeled F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G. The keys are color-coded to match the notes on the staves: F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink). The diagram highlights the relationship between the staves and the keyboard, showing how the notes are mapped to the keys. The Treble Staff starts on the G line, and the Bass Staff starts on the F line. The notes A, B, C, D, E, F, and G are shown on both staves, with the Treble Staff notes starting from the G line and the Bass Staff notes starting from the F line. The notes are color-coded: A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink). The diagram also shows the piano keyboard with the corresponding keys labeled F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G. The keys are color-coded to match the notes on the staves: F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink). The diagram highlights the relationship between the staves and the keyboard, showing how the notes are mapped to the keys. The Treble Staff starts on the G line, and the Bass Staff starts on the F line. The notes A, B, C, D, E, F, and G are shown on both staves, with the Treble Staff notes starting from the G line and the Bass Staff notes starting from the F line. The notes are color-coded: A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink). The diagram also shows the piano keyboard with the corresponding keys labeled F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, A, B, C, D, E, F, G. The keys are color-coded to match the notes on the staves: F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), G (pink), A (black), B (black), C (green), D (black), E (black), F (purple), and G (pink).